

Dear [Sir],

I am deeply disappointed at the vote yesterday to decriminalise abortion up to term. It is tantamount to decriminalising infanticide.

It is absolutely shocking when one considers the mechanics of what's involved in such an act, especially near term. It often involves decapitation or at least puncturing the head of the infant.

I am glad you chose at least not to vote, but neutrality on an issue like this is unattainable.

Dark and barbaric days are ahead, when we pay so disdain to the most vulnerable and weak.

This is a common refrain amongst the prophets, Isa.59.3,7, Jer.22.17, Ezek.9.9, to name but three. Such extreme sin has always presaged and will certainly bring Divine judgement, as history witnesses very amply.

If you doubt me, just wait & see how the Lord deals with our land, already so deeply stained in blood, but better to humble ourselves now and seek for what's right, just and true,

Yours sincerely,

Charles Soper
